Share Farming Opportunity at Stream Farm

Stream Farm is a 260-acre organic farm nestled in a hidden valley high up in the Quantocks in Somerset. We are certified Organic and Pasture for Life, and focussed on sustainable, regenerative farming practices.

We produce organic beef, lamb, pork, chicken, eggs, apple juice and raw honey, along with stream-fed fresh and oak-smoked rainbow trout, selling direct to customers.

The vision for the farm is to profitably support several different farm businesses, enabling those who want to farm to join for a period of time, as share-farmers, in order to gain experience and learn how to run a sustainable farming enterprise.

Through this, it is our hope to show that the British countryside is far better served by large numbers of small farms or farming businesses selling their produce directly to those who are going to consume it, rather than by just a few huge farms selling to the supermarkets.

Central to the vision of the farm is our active Christian faith, which, shared by those who farm here, underpins all that we do.

We are currently looking for people to join Stream Farm, as share farmers, to take on the responsibility of one or more enterprises. Accommodation is provided, with bills included.

Each share-farmer is self-employed, and has some level of investment in their business, gradually taking on the day-to-day running of it for at least a couple of years.

All farmers contribute to the overall running of the farm and community outside of their business area, and come together for larger tasks as and when required.

A full UK driving licence is required. Some experience is preferred, but not mandatory.

We are seeking a 1-2 year commitment from a motivated person/young couple. We are keen to hear from a range of people, so if you're interested in finding out more about this opportunity please contact Will Caldwell on info@streamfarm.co.uk.
